The Information Processing Group dates to 1960, and includes a number of prominent former members. Developing and analyzing channel codes for the Deep Space Network has been a staple of the group from the beginning.